This application is for a new program called the Below Market Rent program. The units provided in this program have been developed through the City of Ottawa's affordable housing program, Action Ottawa, and are affordable to low and moderate-income households.

Your rent in the Below Market Rent program (BMR) is not rent-geared-to-income. You will pay rent at a fixed rate of up to 80% of the Average Market Rent in this program.

In order to be eligible to apply for Below Market Rent units, your household income will need to fall within certain limits set by the City of Ottawa. Registry staff can advise you if you meet this requirement.

7. Housing Co-operatives

What is a housing co-op?

Housing Co-operatives, or co-ops, are different from other forms of non-profit housing. When you live in a housing co-op, you become a member. There is no landlord, the members manage the property themselves and vote on important matters at meetings. Co-op members must usually volunteer at least 4 hours per month.

Who lives in a housing co-op?

Co-ops are open to everyone. When you apply to live in a co-op, you will have to meet certain criteria that the co-op will verify during an interview. Some typical criteria are:

- commitment to participation in the community
- interest in co-op living
- financial responsibility
- interest in living in a diverse community
- willingness to follow co-op by-laws

Before your name is added to a co-op's waiting list for housing, there will be some ADDITIONAL STEPS to your application, such as:

- each co-op will require more information about you (you may have to fill out another more detailed form, available from the co-ops)
- some co-ops may ask you to come to an information session (you must attend an information session in order to be considered for housing at those co-ops)
- landlord and credit checks will be done by most co-ops
- you will be interviewed by members of each co-op that you apply to, to discuss the rights and responsibilities of living in a co-op. If your application is accepted, your name will be added to that co-op's waiting list for housing.
